My husband and I will be in Salt Lake City, UT over Memorial Day weekend. We are coming from WI. I had read an article about a restaurant where you can "work off" your meal, i.e., do dishes, sweep floors or make a contribution. Can someone help us out to find this restaurant? Also, any other points of interest? We will be staying in the downtown area. Thanks.

Wow C,

You've got me stumped. Maybe the restaurant is actually one of the homeless shelter "soup kitchens" on the west side?

Maybe Barbara will see this. She knows downtown better than I do. Barbara?

Why are you coming to SLC? Business? There are several points of interest in downtown and many wonderful things to do and see outside of town. Do you like sports and the outdoors?

Need more to go on.

I think you may be referring to the One World Cafe, where patrons pay whatever they feel is a fair price for their meal.

Cut and paste the link, and you'll find a review and the address. I've eaten there once, and the food was casual and tasty. Not for everyone, but I enjoyed the experience.
