

kuer
FM90

home |
inside FM90

TURN YOUR COMMUTE INTO
THE MOST FASCINATING PART OF THE WORK DAY.

News and Entertainment Powered by npr

kuer programs support FM90 kuer news listen live community events public arts e pledge kue

Bite Sized

Bite Sized is a series about food created by producer Beth Hoffman. Hoffman wants us to stop for a moment and think about the environmental, cultural and artistic connections we have to cooking and eating in Utah. She'll also introduce us to a variety of people who are passionate about food.

Bite Sized - One World Cafe

Beth Hoffman
SALT LAKE CITY, UT (2007-04-23) Producer Beth Hoffman wants us to stop for a moment and think about food in a deeper way -- at the environmental, cultural and artistic connections we have to cooking and eating in Utah. She'll also introduce us to people here who are, well, really passionate about food. Today we meet Denise Cerreta, the founder of the unique One World Everybody Eats Foundation and restaurant.

© Copyright 2007, kuer

Link to the story here.

Denise Cerreta sitting outside One World Cafe. Photo by Don Merrill.

Bite Sized - Passover

Beth Hoffman
SALT LAKE CITY, UT (2007-04-02) Bite Sized is a series about food that airs the first and third Monday of each month on KUER. Producer Beth Hoffman wants us to stop and think about the artistic, environmental and cultural connections we have to cooking and eating. This week, Hoffman brings us to the Jewish Community Center for a traditional Passover meal, a holiday that commemorates the exodus of the Jews from Egypt. Many Jewish families in Utah will have the ritual feast tonight. But last Thursday, the National Jewish Women's Council organized a Seder for seniors in the community.

© Copyright 2007, kuer

Link to the story here.

A traditional Seder plate. Photo by Beth Hoffman.